Some Hike in Taxes Is Inevitable

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — If the Johnson administration decides no hard and fast decisions on additional tax revenue is needed to stem any inflationary trend, it is likely to propose a package of corporate and personal income tax boosts rather than any selective rise.

The administration has made no hard and fast decisions on specific taxes that might be proposed.

But Treasury officials are now looking into possible action which might be taken if — and it's a big if — the administration feels a tax boost might be necessary.

President Johnson has said Congress and the administration should be ready to act quickly if a tax boost is needed to reduce purchasing power and take some steam out of an overheating economy.

Neutrality is the key to Treasury Department thinking on tax policy at this point. This means that if any quick adjustment in taxes is needed, the existing tax structure should remain unchanged. In other words, the tax burden shouldn't be shifted from one group of taxpayers to another.

Any shift in tax burdens, Treasury tax experts feel, is a complex problem with deep-seated feelings usually accompanied by lengthy congressional attention and public debate.

There won't be time for lengthy debate if a tax increase is to be used as an anti-inflationary tool.

A Senate-House economic subcommittee will soon look into possible ways to raise taxes if they have to be boosted to fight inflation. President Johnson and the Treasury welcome the hearing.

In line with the Treasury's neutrality thinking, any tax increase plan probably would be designed to raise the tax burdens of individuals and corporations a proportionately equal amount — depending on how much purchasing power the administration wanted to remove from the economy.

One possibility would be a 1 per cent boost in individual rates — from 14 to 15 per cent in the lowest bracket, for example — and a 2 per cent increase in corporate rates — from 48 to 50 per cent.

This could yield about $4 billion a year.

The Treasury reportedly is leaning against a suspension in the 7 per cent investment credit for business as part of any package but there has been pressure for it, the latest an unsuccessful attempt by Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to make it a part of the administration tax measure expected to receive final congressional approval this week.

That measure would suspend reductions in car and telephone excise taxes which went into effect Jan. 1 and speed up collections of individual and corporate taxes, bringing in an estimated $6 billion over the next two years. The administration wants to see what effect this has on the economy before taking any further action.

Suspension of the investment credit would hit inflationary pressures where they are strong — in spending for plant and equipment. But it also might weaken the administration's ties with business.

An excess-profits tax—which was used during World War II and the Korean conflict—is not in the Treasury's thinking this time. It is too hard to administer and contains too many exemptions, some experts feel. It is also generally considered a wartime measure.

Canadians Debating Scandal

By MAX HARRELSON
OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's big debate over the Gerda Munsinger case continued today amid indications that both major political parties were prepared to stake their future on the outcome of a proposed judicial investigation.

The House of Commons was to resume discussion this afternoon of the Liberal government's order for a judicial inquiry into all aspects of the case involving the 36-year-old German beauty and some members of the previous Conservative Cabinet.

Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson surprised some observers Monday night by the broad terms of the investigation, which will be carried out under the direction of Supreme Court Justice W.F. Spence.

Pearson suggested that the investigation not only determine whether national security had been endangered but also whether the government of Conservative Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker had handled the case properly.

Two members of Diefenbaker's Cabinet have acknowledged that they knew Mrs. Munsinger, who now lives in Munich, West Germany. She was a resident of Canada from the late 1950s to 1961, and Justice Minister Lucien Cardin has said that she was involved in espionage before coming to Canada.

Former Trade Minister George Hees told the House of Commons that he recognized Mrs. Munsinger from photographs and that he may have taken her to lunch. Former Associate Defense Minister Pierre Sevigny has said he knew Mrs. Munsinger socially. Both men denied vigorously that she had ever sought information from them or that any security risk was involved.

Diefenbaker also denied that this was a security matter. He accused the government of smearing his whole Cabinet by refusing to identify the men involved.

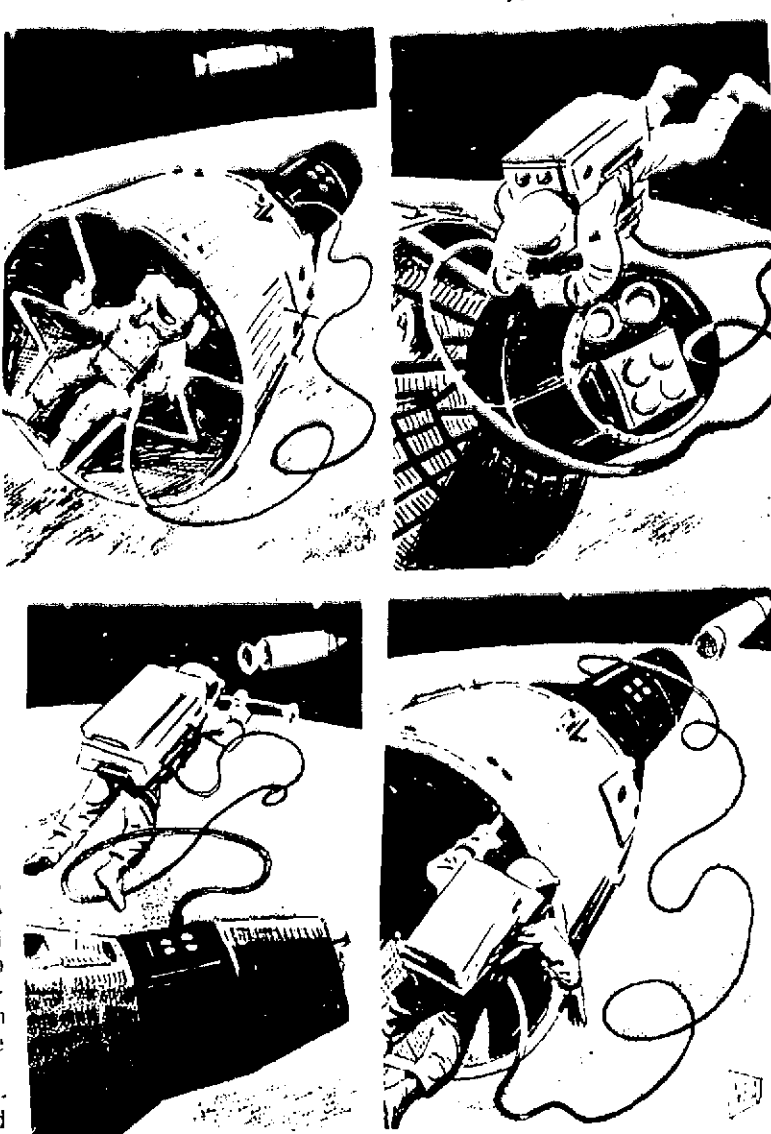

The government carefully guarded whatever evidence it has, but the justice minister insisted several times during the Commons debate that the investigation would show he was right.

Pearson not only backed Cardin fully, but asked the commission of inquiry to investigate the various statements made by the justice minister. This appeared to be a gesture of confidence that the charges would be supported by evidence.

Rain Brings Hope to Australians

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Scattered rain in western New South Wales during the past 24 hours gave farmers and cattle breeders today some hope of relief from a record drought described as the worst in memory.

A spokesman for the Conservation Department said the rain was too light and patchy to provide any appreciable runoff to dams and reservoirs, most of which are less than half full. But he said it would lower demand for irrigation from drying-up rivers.

Gemini Shot Wednesday Is Hopeful

By JIM STROTHMAN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Gemini 8 astronauts — grounded for at least 24 hours by a bundle of mechanical problems — hoped to rocket into orbit Wednesday. They will use a borrowed piece of vital hardware from another Gemini spacecraft to keep them alive.

A "go-no go" decision to launch astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and David R. Scott Wednesday or Thursday will be made this morning, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said. The busy three-day mission is aimed at the first hookup of two satellites in space and a 2½-hour "stroll in space" by Scott.

Encouraged by a satisfactory weather forecast for Wednesday, technicians hustled into the early hours of the morning today installing and checking out a life-supporting environmental control system borrowed from the Gemini 9 spacecraft. An oxygen leak was discovered in a space circuit in Gemini 8's environmental control system.

Meanwhile, 6,000 feet away from the Gemini-Titan 2 launch pad, workmen replaced some equipment on the 66-foot-tall Atlas rocket which is scheduled to hoist the astronauts' unmanned Agena space target into orbit 101 minutes before Armstrong and Scott blast off.

NASA said a valve and regulator were replaced in the Atlas after a fuel tank was filled beyond capacity and propellant sloshed into a pressure line and onto the valve and regulator. Project officials said the Atlas' problems were "under control," and time needed to check out the new spacecraft environmental control system was the pace.

ing item. The environmental control system is the device that keeps the two astronauts alive. It pumps oxygen for breathing and gets rid of carbon dioxide exhaled by the spacemen. It also cools the spacesuits — as well as the inside of the Gemini 8 spacecraft — and keeps the atmospheric pressure at the proper level.

The system consists of water and oxygen supplies; provides for removing small solids, odor and excess moisture from the suit, supplies drinking water, and gets rid of urine.

The Gemini 9 spacecraft was delivered to Cape Kennedy March 2 and was undergoing checks for a May launching.

If the new system can be checked out in time and no other problems develop, Armstrong and Scott will attend their final weather briefing today, then relax to save the energy needed during their busy space venture.

The Atlas is scheduled to blast off at 10 a.m. (EST) and hoist the Agena into a 185-mile-high orbit around the earth. Liftoff time for Gemini 8 will be 11:41 a.m.

Red Terrorists Pay Heavy Toll

GUATEMALA (AP) — Informants say Guatemalan police have killed from 15 to 25 Red terrorists and guerrillas in the past 11 days including Victor Manuel Gutierrez, leader of the outlawed Guatemalan Communist party.

Gutierrez, who had been living in exile in Mexico City, apparently slipped back into Guatemala within the past two weeks.

He reportedly was captured before the presidential election last week along with Leonardo Castillo Flores, an official in the pro-Communist regime of Jacobo Arbenz.

Reports said Gutierrez and Castillo were taken to an isolated island.

AREAS OF RAIN forecast today include the central Atlantic states, Florida and over Wisconsin and Minnesota, with showers over the upper Rockies. It will be cooler in the West into the Plains states and in the Northeast, with warmer weather in the Southeast. AP Wire photo.

Quake Destroyed in Red China

TOKYO (AP) — Official reports from Red China indicate that the powerful earthquake that ripped across north China March 8 may have flattened scores of villages and left high casualties.

The reports from the New China News Agency give no figures but tell of massive relief work, hospitals being set up in the field and teams working to rebuild collapsed houses.

The jolt, nearly as powerful as that which devastated Alaska in 1964, came about 5:30 a.m. when millions presumably were still sleeping. The center reportedly was around Kaifeng, a large city.

NCNA said food supplies were buried in the collapsed houses but said nothing of the people inside.

Temporary quarters are being constructed in villages where houses have collapsed, NCNA reported.

Monument Blasted in Ireland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DUBLIN (AP) — The Irish army blew up the remnant of Dublin's Nelson Monument today and in the process broke windows all around.

The plan called for the rest of the column to topple more or less in one piece into an open space. Instead it disintegrated, peppering the area with fragments.

They should have called in the boys who did the first part of the job," said one onlooker. The outlawed Irish Republican Army is generally thought responsible for the explosion last Tuesday which brought down the 20-foot statue of Lord Nelson and the top 40 to 60 feet of the 114-foot column which supported him.

The sabotaging of the 157-year-old landmark, a symbol to Irish nationalists of British oppression, presumably was in preparation for the 50th anniversary next month of the 1916 Easter uprising against British rule.

Ann Davis of Russellville will report to Hope for her internship and Gary Whisnant of Russellville will report to the Little Rock Air Force Base.

"The internship program is required of our recreation and parks majors," states Zaso. "In the off-campus program they become actively involved in the recreation program from administration, programming, and leadership, to public relations as they pertain to the recreation profession."

Miss Davis will work under the direction of Charles Gough, superintendent of Recreation and Parks at Hope and Whisnant will work under the direction of James Toalson, director of recreation at the Air Force Base.

The two are the first of Tech's recreation majors to participate in the internship program. As other senior majors become available they are scheduled to work with cooperating agencies at the Hot Springs Rehabilitation Center, and Bous Clubs, Fort Roots Veterans Hospital, the Lakewood Property Owners' association in North Little Rock, the YMCA in Little Rock, Memphis Boys Club, Blytheville Air Force Base, and other.

There are 23 majors in the program this year. A number of seniors are scheduled to take the internship program this summer.

Flue Interrupts His Campaign

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Ronald Reagan's campaign for the Republican gubernatorial nomination was interrupted again Sunday by influenza.

With a temperature of 101 degrees, Reagan was placed on antibiotics and ordered to bed at his home in Pacific Palisades, a suburb of Los Angeles.

Reagan first was stricken two weeks ago but seemingly recovered.

McClellan Seeking a Fifth Term

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., will seek his fifth term in Congress.

McClellan, 70, said in Little Rock Sunday night that, as far as he knew, his health was good and that he was ready if necessary to "make an active and aggressive campaign."

McClellan's decision drew no comment from Gov. Orval Faubus, who returned Sunday from Washington and a conference on antipoverty programs. There has been speculation that Faubus might seek a Senate seat this year instead of a seventh term as governor.

If the first part of your vehicle identification number is here, you might be a winner.

Here's how it works. Look at the first symbols (the prefix) on your vehicle identification number. Then look at the symbols listed above. If you find yours on the list, you've taken the first step toward being a winner. Now go see your Buick dealer. He has a list of 72 winners posted in his showroom. If you see your entire vehicle identification number on the poster—the symbol plus the rest of the number—$2332 cash is yours. (If your prefix isn't listed in this ad, don't give up. Your numbers may have been posted during the past few weeks. And every week there are 72 new winners posted on the showroom wall. So watch for next week's list of new symbols in this newspaper.) No slogan to invent, no puzzles to solve. In fact, you don't even have to own a Buick to have a winning number. While you're in the showroom, get a pool look at the Buick Special. The $2332.00 happens to be its price. (Manufacturer's suggested retail price. Tax, title, license, dealer fees, and options extra.)

Contest Rules. Residents of Kansas, Missouri, and Nebraska may, if they prefer, send in a postcard to R. L. Polk and Co., P.O. Box 147, Detroit, Michigan 48231 and receive the weekly list of winning numbers by mail for comparison with their own vehicle identification number. An official entry form will be included. Sweepstakes limited to persons over 21 living in the continental U.S. (Not valid in Florida or states where prohibited by law.)

Drifting Toward Setting Sun

BY DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

HOLLYWOOD—(NEA)—The great migration continues—New Yorkers moving, or contemplating a move, to Los Angeles as more and more of show business is concentrated here.

Carol Burnett and her husband, director Joe Hamilton, are expecting to make the move, probably this summer. They are both Californians—Carol was born in Texas but reared here and Joe is a native of Angeleno—and prefer it. Joe has been directing Sammy Davis' show, but that seems to have had it, so there's nothing left to keep him in New York, either.

As for Carol's own hopes and plans, she has decided that what she wants to do is television specials—like Carol + Two (Lucille Ball and Zero Mostel are the + Two) which you'll see on CBS on March 22—and feature films.

"I don't really like the stage," Carol says. "The stage is an abnormal way of life—I much prefer normal hours. I'm just not a night person."

The three—Carol, Lucy, Zero—had never worked together before but formed a mutual admiration society. And Lucy extracted promises from both Carol and Zero that they would appear on her own show next season.

Lovely Nancy Kovack, who is killed off in the first eight minutes of "The Silencers," considers herself lucky. She walked out after her death scene.

"I didn't know," she says, "when I made the picture, that it was going to turn out to be so full of dirty innuendoes."

Petticoat Junction's Lori Saunders had to take a big salary cut to become a television star. But it was in the nature of an investment, she figures.

Before she was tapped to play Jo Jo (well, she's one of the Jos), she was a top model for television commercials. You probably remember her as the original Dippity Doo girl and on TWA spiels and countless others.

"I made so much more with the commercials," Lori says. "But the change was worth it. I think—because I want to be an actress, to learn, and this is the best way."

NOTABLES' QUOTABLES

"I buy many things. I don't believe in a budget—life is too short. I even enjoy the supermarket."—Verna Lisi.

"I played a part in 'Murder, Inc.' in which I killed 25 men with an ice pick. There wasn't any particularly good way to prepare for that part. I think the whole business of preparation has been overemphasized."—Peter Falk.

"When I read scripts, I look for something an audience can understand. I don't want to play a character too far above everyone. On the other hand, I don't want to play a string of 30-year-old virgins, being chased around a bed, just because the audience digs it. Somewhere in between is the kind of picture I like to do."—Shirley Maclaine.

More Slang Terms
Dear Helen: I thought you might like to hear one of the slang-things we read in your column has made it big at our school, but in a different way. You said "Hang a Roscoe" or "Hang a Louie" was "turn to the right" or "left" while you are driving, as in "Hang a Roscoe at the clash" (intersection). Well, whenever anyone does a good thing around here he or she "Hangs a Roscoe." I like "Turns to the right." If he goes it up, he "hangs a Louie." (We used to call a goof up, "Frum-pin.")

Sometimes our parents have a cow about our slang, but, heck, life would be flaky without it. Don't you think?—Hang Ten

Dear Helen: Slang is like eating chicken with your fingers—and place, but you'd better know real 'whompin' at the right time and place, but you'd better know when the right time— isn't, and how to talk without it.

Wanta hear some new ones? Resto-fritcher: neat person. (Don't ask me why.) Lennonist: smart operator, one who can talk his way out of trouble.

Teshup: German slang for "so long," like the Italian "ciao," which I bet most of you spell "Chow."—11.

Dear Helen: Here's another reason why pierced ears wouldn't go with me. A lot of kids wear the pierced-look earrings now, and people come up to them and yank, sort of, to see whether they're real for fake. If they aren't false, oh boy! From hurtsville.—"Caritated"

Why, Oh Why?
Dear Helen: Can anyone tell me why kids think it's the greatest thing since skateboards to get engaged and married young when all they have to do is look to see how awful a lot of marriages turn out. Especially teen marriages.

Believe me, I'm going to travel and have a career and get all the go-go out of my system before I settle for only one. I think these girls that marry early are just scared they won't get another chance!—"No" Girl

Dear NU: Hold that thought when teenage love knocks common sense for a flock of shootingstars. It can happen, even to smart little gals who "No" their way around.—H.

Dear Helen: If "E.S." really believes that "marriage is your aim in life, girls" I feel sorry for her. Heaven help the girl who regulates her whole life by participating only in the activities that will help catch some unlucky man. I say "unlucky," because he becomes, as "E.S." implies, only a trophy, something to be hunted down by some determined female.

The aim of everyone should be to fulfill his or her own potentialities, and this is as important for a girl as for a man. No, Helen, I'm not a man-hater. After I graduate from college in June, I will hopefully work at my career, travel, play for ten years—and I'll continue to enjoy male company. Then, when and if I marry, my husband will have a mature woman, not a triumphant huntress.—C.

Dear C: . . . And your future husband will be a lucky man!—H.

Fashion Tips

Pick Fashions Carefully

Try not to be carried away by eccentric high jinks as you flip through your favorite fashion magazine. Many slick fashions appear becoming and colorful but on the wrong type girl they can prove grotesque.

Glass Slippers Are Back

Cinderella's glass slippers have made the scene again. A little more up-to-date, they are made of glass fiber. Unfortunately, a prince doesn't come with every pair; you'll have to work that angle on your own.

Contrasting inserts sculpture the blouse front of this coarse-resistant two-piece, 95% Arnel triacetate and 5% Cupioni rayon, at once ribbed and nubby; in pink, aqua, white or maize and sizes 8 to 18. $22.95

Crinkled white seersucker—with the snap of black, navy or brown stripes widely spaced, and a matching sheer scarf. Of 85% cotton and 15% acetate that packs beautifully. Sizes are 10 to 20. $22.95

Hundley Is Basketball's Joe Garagiola

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Hot Rod Hundley is not particular about his audiences.

One person, two or 300 — the counter at the White Tower or the main ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria. It's a performance and Hot Rod is a pro.

Rod Hundley was an All-America at West Virginia, who used to shoot hook shots from the foul line.

Then he was a backcourt man for six years with the Minneapolis and Los Angeles Lakers.

Now he sells basketball shoes and tells basketball jokes. His jokes and sales pitch are synonymous and his laughs and sales are increasing steadily.

The demand for Hot Rod's jokes and stories is growing, too, and he finds himself spending most of the week at banquets, clinics and basketball games all over the country.

"I tell 'em about pride," Hot Rod says, his voice getting very dramatic, his eyes darting quickly from side to side, his fists clenched.

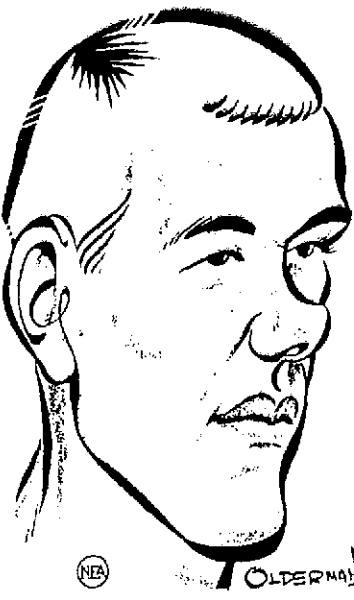

"I tell 'em you got to have pride to be any good as a basketball player. Without it, you're nothing."

"I build 'em up, getting real serious, see. Then I tell 'em about the kids across the street. One is five. The other six. They always want to play 21 with me. But they never win. They can't beat me."

"Why can't they? Pride . . ."

His favorite subject among the pros is Dick Barnett, who uses the word "darlin'" at least once in each sentence. Barnett was Hundley's teammate in Los Angeles. He's with New York now.

Holdouts for Big Money Hit Major Leagues

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Fresno, Calif. — Jim Malone's idea of a summer festival, Elba was no picnic for Napoleon either.

But Nappy was holding out for a lot more than $50,000. And how many no-hitters did he pitch?

Maloney, who tossed a pair of no-hit gems and won 20 games for the Cincinnati Reds last season, is in exile at his Fresno home. The Reds, apparently, are in no hurry to set him free after his rejection of their "final offer" of $42,500.

The big right-hander is holding out for $50,000 on the strength of his 20-9 record, 244 strikeouts and 2.54 earned run average last year.

Cincinnati's last word: "Have a nice summer in Fresno."

Maloney's answer: "Trade me or sell me."

"I'm sure some club can use my services, if not in the National League, then in the American," the 25-year-old fireballer said Monday. "I've got enough work here. I'm not hurting. I've saved my money and made a few investments."

Chances are the Maloney — and baseball's other illustrious exiles, pitchers Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers — will find their way back to the diamond before next month's season opens.

In the meantime, Cincinnati Manager Don Heckner and Dodgers' pitcher Walter Alton are making alternate plans — and keeping their fingers crossed.

"It's hard to tell what the effect would be if we had to play without them (Koufax and Drysdale)," Alton said at the Dodgers' Vero Beach, Fla., training base.

"We have some young pitchers we're pretty proud of. I like to think they would react like Jim Lefebvre (National League rookie of the year) when he came up last year — and be better than we thought."

"Given a chance to pitch they might be able to do it. But it all depends."

While Drysdale and Koufax continued their campaign for a reported $1-million package over three years, the Dodgers hoped to pick off shortstop Maury Wills today. Wills, who turned down a $75,000 contract over the weekend, was to meet with club vice president Buzzie Bavasi at Vero Beach.

Minnesota pitcher Jim Grant was the only other unsatisfied player as the clubs swung into the second week of exhibition play.

Injuries to catchers Tom Haller and Dick Bertell marred San Francisco's 5-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs. Haller had a fingernail on his throwing hand torn away by foul tip and may be out for two weeks. Bertell sustained a groin injury in a collision at the plate but is expected to be ready to play again shortly.

Willie Mays hit his second homer in two days and rookie Ollie Brown connected with two aboard for the Giants.

Baltimore second baseman Jerry Adair suffered a bruised left wrist and a cut on the lower left that required 21 stitches when hit by a Tony Cloninger pitch during the Orioles' 2-0 loss to the Atlanta Braves.

Philadelphia Manager Gene Mauch nursed a bruised right hand through the Phillies' 5-3 victory over Minnesota after being struck by a batted ball in practice.

Roberto Clemente's three-run homer powered Pittsburgh to a 5-1 victory over St. Louis; homers by Al Kaline and Dick McAuliffe lifted Detroit past the Dodgers 4-3 and Cincinnati topped Houston 4-2 on circuits by Gordie Coleman and Vada Pinson.

The New York Yankees nipped Boston 5-4 on Bobby Richardson's run-scoring single in the ninth; the Chicago White Sox snapped the New York Mets' two-game winning streak 4-1 and Cleveland whipped the California Angels 5-2 on Chuck Hinton's bases-loaded triple.

NYU Defeats Basketball Second Seeded Wichita Five

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The moving finger writes and having writ moves on.

So says an 11th Century poet. But in the case of the 1965 locker-room poet, the finger writes — and hanzs around.

Before Monday night's National Invitation Tournament basketball game between New York University and Wichita, the finger chalked on the locker-room blackboard:

"Game No. 1 is now under your belt. So let's hit Wichita with the second welt. Then in the 3rd game put on the clasp. And you end up the champ."

NYU followed the poetic advice and trimmed second-seeded Wichita in overtime 90-81, advancing to the semifinals for the third straight year.

In the opener of the double-header, top-seeded Brigham Young defeated Temple 90-78 and will play the winner of tonight's Army-San Francisco game in Thursday's semifinal. NYU will play the winner of the Villanova - Boston College contest.

"I'll start thinking of Thursday's game now so it will rhyme," said the locker-room poet, NYU trainer Edwin Farrell.

"I've been writing them about the last six games."

A month ago the Violets had a mediocre 10-8 record and were distant from any tournament. Then they won five of their last six games and earned an NIT bid.

Once in the tournament, they beat De Paul 68-65. Then Monday night, they played possibly their best game of the season in upsetting Wichita.

Eight NYU free throws to one field goal for the Wheatshockers ended it in overtime. Bruce Kaplan made four of the free throws while Mal Grahaio and Richie Dyer added two each. It was Graham's field goal with 31 seconds left that tied the game in regulation time 82-82. The deadlock was the 14th of the second half, which also saw the lead change hands 18 times.

Mays Shows No Signs of Slowing Up

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Willie Mays, the National League's Most Valuable Player of 1965, shows no signs of slowing down this spring.

In his first three exhibition games, playing only the first half of each, he has hit two home runs and thrown two opposing base runners out at home plate.

Despite the rigors of the winter banquet circuit, he reported to camp just four pounds over his usual playing weight of 188 and says he feels just great.

Personally, he doesn't want much mention of his spring exploits, declaring:

"Every spring it's the same old stuff. You mention how old I am. Let's just let it be fun. Just let me play."

Mays, 34, who hit a career high of 52 homers last year to lead the major leagues, opened his spring campaign with a run-scoring double on the first pitch from Cleveland's Gary Bell and drove in two more tallies before retiring after the fifth inning.

He homered over the right-field fence in Phoenix Municipal Stadium on Sunday at the expense of Cleveland's Lee Stange and over the left-field fence on Monday off Chicago's Larry Jackson. Both clouts carried more than 400 feet.

From center field, he threw out Vic Davillio in Saturday's Cactus League opener and Howie Edwards on Sunday as each headed for home.

Willie doesn't feel he'll play in all of the exhibitions, but when he had a chance to bat in the sixth against the Cubs, he had no argument and promptly singled to open a three run rally capped by rookie Ollie Brown's home run with two aboard.

With Mays showing the way, the Giants have won three straight — 17-8 and 6-2 over the Indians and 5-4 over the Cubs.

SWC Gives Boost to Grade Requirements

DALLAS (AP) — Help for athletes in meeting the 1.6 grade average stipulated by the NCAA has come in a rule passed by the Southwest Conference that permits physical training to count toward academic eligibility.

Howard Grubbs, executive secretary of the conference, said a maximum of four hours credit in physical training would be allowed toward academic eligibility during the athlete's college career but no more than one hour can be counted in any one semester.

The faculty representatives, governing body of the conference, decided on the rule to help ease the athlete's burden. It will apply only to athletes who entered conference schools last midyear or will enroll at a later date.

The 1.6 rule (a better than D-plus average) was invoked nationally for students entering college last midyear.

In the early fifties, the conference passed a rule that physical training could not be counted toward eligibility. Whether any of the schools ever had counted it doesn't appear in the records. Obviously they were or no rule prohibiting it would have been necessary.

The faculty committee also de-summer school work toward eligibility in athletics but the Southwest Conference does not. However, the faculty committee now is considering it but will wait until next fall to make a decision.

The faculty committee also decided the standing of an athlete in his high school class could be determined at the end of the end of the seventh or eighth semester, whichever is favorable to the boy. Standing in the high school class determines the score a boy has to make on an aptitude test to determine if he can make a 1.6 in college work.

'Philly-Dog' Seems to Be Latest Thing

By JEAN HELLER
NEW YORK (AP) — Go ahead and Monkey if you can do it Boston style, and Jerk if you can do it discreetly. But beware the Frug and Watusi. They could destroy your social image completely.

That's the word from the discotheques and dance studios around town that make it their business to keep their juke boxes attuned to the pulse of the bump and grind set.

From one of the most famous of the discotheques, Arthur, word has leaked that to be really up to date, you should be the first on your block to learn a dance called the Philly-Dog.

So what's the Philly-Dog? It reportedly was imported to New York from Philadelphia, the town that gave the world Chubby Checker and his Twist, a dance that now is not even mentioned in the "in" circles because it has been "out" so long.

Most people have never heard of the Philly-Dog, but it seems certain that if a name catches on, someone is bound to make up a dance step to go with it.

"I've never heard of it, but I'm certain I could do it," one observer remarked. "The popular dances are all the same basic movements with slight variation on which part of the body is tilted, turned, twisted, twirled or otherwise disturbed."

A spokesman for the Arthur Murray dance studios disagreed. "They are not all the same at all," she said. "In the plain Monkey, dancers just moved their arms. That's out now, but the Boston Monkey is in. That's the old Monkey movements with a turning motion added like you're sprinkling seeds."

In other words, you act like a monkey and add a twist of the Twist, and you're all set.

Or if you prefer, you can waddle like a duck. The Duck is simply twisting of the pelvis. No quacking is required, but a little couldn't hurt.

I was speaking recently with Bob Hawthorne, a handsome lad from Canada, who has won a number of world casting championships. He was appearing at a New York sports show, giving daily, and I might say dazzling, exhibitions of bait and spin casting.

Bob has an assortment of trick casts. He can bow cast behind his back, and he bow casts holding the plug in his mouth. He casts underhand, whirling the plug in the air before the release just like a pitcher winds up his throwing arm.

Regardless of his launching technique, every cast zips through the air at top speed. Since the distances are so short, it seems as if every cast will not only overshoot the target but will go whizzing on past to snare an exhibitor a few booths down.

But Bob stops the plug a few inches past the target, and it drops like a stone into the center of the casting ring. His accuracy is uncanny, and most folks are simply stunned at the sight.

This, of course, is more showmanship than anything and Bob, an avid angler, will not deny it. But he is paid to entertain and he does just that.

"This may look spectacular," he says, "but it isn't glamorous. It's really the result of practice, practice and more practice. It comes in handy when I'm fishing, but it isn't all that necessary."

There is one thing, however, about trick casting that applies to fishing. Most folks watch the target. I don't. I watch the plug at all times. I figure that the target won't move, but the plug will. I pick up the target when the plug reaches it.

Believe me, friends, that does take practice.

Teenage Marriages Increase Despite the Fact That 50 Per Cent of Them Break Up

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:
Teen-age marriages are increasing, despite the fact that 50 per cent of them break up. About 14 out of every 100 teenage lads have said, "I do," and about half of all the brides wed this year will be under 20.
If you're taking your wife to Las Vegas, Nev., be sure she isn't wearing moccasins. Women in flat shoes, a survey found, could play the slot machines for four hours, those in high heels wore out in 2 1/2 hours.

Speaking of high-heel shoes, King Louis XIV of France is credited with making them himself. The pint-sized monarch wore a red pair at court functions to make himself look more impressive.

Prosperity note: The federal government will spend about $3.3 billion for education in 1966, or 20 times the sum it expended 10 years ago.

Durable br'er rabbit: Although hunters kill them by the tens of millions each year, cottontail rabbits still flourish as America's No. 1 game animal. Most never last through their first winter although rabbits have been known to live from seven to nine years. Their survival secret: One doe can have from 28 to 40 bunnies between spring and frost.

Quotable notables: "If you stop and think about it, you'll realize that three out of four people do not know exactly what they're doing a large part of the time" — Gelett Burgess.

Safety tip: You are about 40 times less likely to be killed in a commercial airliner than in an automobile. The fatality rate per 100,000 passenger miles is 5.7 for private cars, only 0.14 for the airlines.

History lesson: Can you name the most dangerous and the safest months for U.S. presidents? Well, seven died in July; none so far has died in May.

How to make yourself socially more popular: Drinking sweet milk will eliminate breath odors caused by eating onions. Gulping lots of black coffee helps if you've indulged with garlic-flavored foods.

Quip: Actor Jason Robards says, "You can tell your children are growing up when you notice lipstick on your daughter's lips — and on the collar of the shirt your son borrowed from you."

You think you've heard of everything? Word comes from Hollywood that some zanies there are having "come as your favorite disease" parties.

Worth remembering: "The one thing worse than a quitter is the man who is afraid to begin."

Folklore: Fishing improves when the dogwood blossoms. If it rains on Monday, it'll rain at least three days. If a girl going through the woods picks up a crooked stick she will later marry a worthless man. A young girl overly fond of cats will wind up as an old maid.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Harold J. Whitaker, 40, of Lake Village, was sentenced to three years in prison Thursday on his conviction on 22 counts of mail fraud.

The government accused Whitaker of using the mails to defraud persons in a work-at-home scheme involving baby bibs, aprons and fishing lures.

Where Health Dollars Go

Private funds are the source of almost three quarters of national health expenditures—in 1964, $27.2 billion as against $9.5 billion in public funds. Use also varies greatly, with the biggest share of private funds going to professional personnel in private practice while it is hospital care which takes the biggest bite in public money. The most noticeable change indicated in Newscharts of shifting expenditure percentages from 1950 to 1964 is the jump in the medical research effort with public funds, from 2.3 to 12.3 per cent of the total.

Auto Makers Relieved Over Safety Plan

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business News Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Auto industry leaders breathed a sigh of relief today after getting their first look at President Johnson's long-awaited traffic safety program.

"This is a reasonable proposal and we can live with it," said one industry source. He, along with others in the industry who discussed the program, declined use of his name.

The President's 17-page proposal sent to Congress Wednesday called for a $700-million, six-year program to arrest what he called "carnage on the highways."

Among them were James Roche, president of General Motors; Lynn A. Townsend, president of Chrysler; Richard E. Cross, chairman of American Motors and John A. Bugas, vice president of Ford Motor Co.

The auto industry had known for several months that President Johnson, concerned over the nation's 49,000 traffic fatalities last year, was going to add his voice to the cause of auto safety.

Some industry leaders had expressed fears federal intervention in the safety program would result in government controls of the auto business.

GM President Roche, for example, said recently: "Regulation would have a severe and adverse effect on our business. It would substitute rigidity for flexibility, bureaucratic approval for public approval."

After a first look at the Johnson proposals, however, the industry indicated it found nothing major on which it would disagree with the President.

One official commented: "It looks like the body of the proposal is reasonable and one which the industry would be hard put to defeat or defy. I would assume it would be difficult for us to oppose the legislation as I understand it."

In brief, the Johnson message called for:

—An authorization, but not a requirement, to the secretary of commerce to determine safety criteria for all vehicles.

—An increase in federal grants to states for highway safety projects.

—An expansion of the federal government's highway safety research efforts, including a national highway safety research and test center.

Industry sources, who had repeatedly expressed hopes that they would be allowed to work out safety problems without federal interference, were cheered by the timetable set up in the Johnson message.

This provided that if the industry does not adopt voluntary safety standards for motor vehicles within two years after the secretary of commerce has suggested them, the secretary then could prescribe mandatory standards which would take effect two years later.

War Bill Has Congress Very Busy

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON (AP) — A $13.1-billion appropriation bill and a $6-billion tax measure may keep Congress busier than usual this week and fan the fires of controversy over foreign policy.

Both are emergency measures and by-products of the Viet Nam war.

The appropriation bill comes before the House Tuesday and is expected to pass by Wednesday. It has not been considered by the Senate.

The bill carries the exact amount of money requested by President Johnson to finance the increasing cost of military and economic programs in Viet Nam and other areas of South-east Asia. It would raise to about $60 billion total defense appropriations voted for the current fiscal year ending June 30.

The tax bill already has passed both the House and the Senate, but in different forms. A compromise scheduled for passage by both branches Tuesday would raise an estimated $6 billion through fiscal 1967 and add about 300,000 persons 72 years old or older to the Social Security benefits rolls. The pensioners would be paid by funds from the Social Security trust fund until July 1, 1967.

The new revenue would come from restoration of recent cuts in excise taxes on automobiles and telephone calls and a revision of the withholding system designed to keep taxpayers current with their income tax liability and also speed payment of corporate taxes.

The administration requested the tax bill as an antiinflation weapon.

Two other bills on the House docket this week are expected to stir controversy.

One would provide an official residence in Washington for the vice president. The other would allow the Interstate Commerce Commission to order Daylight Saving Time during six summer months for all time zones in the nation.

Except for the compromise tax bill, the Senate has no major legislation scheduled for the week. Last week it passed a $415-million emergency foreign aid bill, the original version of its tax measure, and a bill to create 46 new federal judgeships.

Market Dip May Cause No Damage

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The big stock market drop may have done some damage to consumer and business confidence but so far there's little evidence of it.

Business plans to go on spending for expansion. And the total outlay grows larger with each tally. The decline in stock prices apparently is regarded as a passing event.

Consumers bought more in February than in January. Consumer installment debt continues high with little but seasonal variations noted by the finance companies.

So far as yet discernible, the big downturn in stock prices hasn't hurt the general belief that the economy will continue to expand. But it may well have nipped any runaway speculative fever in both consumers and business.

And if so, this would be welcomed by most government, business and banking leaders. A return to the caution that ruled the early years of the Soaring Sixties could be a good thing for everyone.

Businessmen, for example, say they're going on increasing the size of their inventories. But they plan to hold the increases to smaller proportions than during the final months of 1965. Then inventories soared rapidly, leading many to fear that inflation fever had caught hold.

Manufacturers raised inventories by $1.7 billion in the last three months of 1965. In the first three months of this year they expect to add another billion to stocks of goods. But government economists are stressing not the billion gain but the $700 million less in this quarter than in the preceding one.

The billion increase is regarded as a sign that business is expected to be enough better to require moderately larger inventories. The $700-million slower pace is interpreted as meaning that manufacturers aren't out to hoard the raw materials they need because of fear that rapid inflation of prices is on the way.

A fear that the economy was starting to overheat is one of the many reasons given for the almost steady decline of stock prices in February and the first half of March.

The announced intentions of businessmen to increase spending for new plant and equipment seemed to feed this fear that the economy was taking off on a dangerous boom.

The announced intentions of manufacturers to go on building up inventories but at a fairly moderate pace would seem to show that they didn't expect the economic expansion to get out of hand. And it also would seem to show that they aren't, as yet, too impressed by the ups and downs of the stock market.

Roses and Fences Inseparable

Roses beautify fences, whether trailing over them as climbers, or as foreground plants like grandifloras, floribundas, or hybrid teas, according to the American Association of Nurserymen. Roses also perfume the air nearby.

Roses Are Widely Used In Landscaping

Roses have many functional uses on the property. They make colorful beds along the driveway and serve, too, as borders for annuals or other shrubs. Climbing varieties can be planted to adorn the garage or an unsightly fence post. Planted near the house, rose bushes add color to the evergreen foundation plants from spring through fall. They can be used as accent plants, and if well placed they will emphasize the architecture of the house. As hedges they create privacy where desired, and they are useful as screens as well as ground covers. Rows of miniature rose bushes add striking effect under picture windows or along walks.

The early gardener acquires bigger and better rose blooms, says the American Association of Nurserymen. The sooner your rose plants throw out their roots, the earlier the plants will grow and bud, forming better quality first-year flowers. So start early in your rose plantings. Bare root rose plants preferably are set out when they first come into the markets. At that time they are in their most perfect condition, and of course, they will have the benefit of longer season of growth and flower.

A fairly new type of rose is a class known as "grandiflora." Its name characterizes this plant, which is vigorous in growth and has a wealth of blooms. It is ideal as a specimen or accent plant, its blooms often having a spectacular display.

Floribunda roses are extremely useful for landscaping. They afford masses of blooms of just about the right height for narrow beds along a walk or fence, or rose beds. Many new floribunda roses have been introduced in recent years, and they are available in a wide range of colors.

The smallest rose plants are the miniatures which have had a revival in modern landscaping where low rose plants are desired beside a terrace or as a low border to a garden of other flowers. The small flowers are perfectly formed miniatures of the larger blooms and they are increasingly being used for pots, table arrangements and boutonnieres.

Tree roses have assumed more importance recently as the demand for landscape roses has increased. Tree roses are grown on a single large stem or "trunk," branching out at a height of about four or five feet to appear like a bouquet of roses. They are grown in a variety of colors. Along walks, in a regular rose garden to give "two-tier" effect, or set on a terrace in tubs or pots, they impart a rather formal effect.

As always, climbing roses are best for arbor planting or beside a porch, garage or along a fence or high wall. They are widely used in landscaping.

For formal rose gardens the hybrid tea rose is preferred by many, although it is often used elsewhere, in beds along walks, beside a patio or garden living room and similar locations.

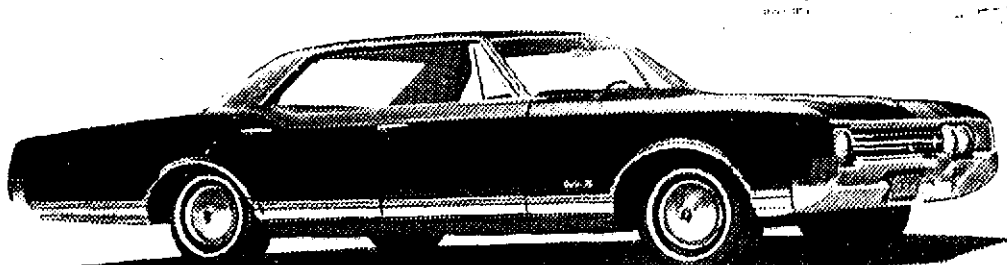

Some of the newer varieties are conversation pieces and like other species, they provide cut flowers for inside the home. New colors, from lavender to orange, with many new shades of yellow, pink and red, are continuously being produced by famous hybridizers here and abroad.

So select your rose plants with care to serve your property functionally as well as for beauty.

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Most Victims Recover After Desert Fever Attacks

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My husband, 48, and my son, 20, both have an infection of the lungs called coccidioidomycosis or San Joaquin Valley fever. Is it contagious? Is it serious? Is there any cure for it?

A—This disease, also called desert fever, is caused by the mold, coccidioides. It is usually acquired by inhaling the fungus spores from dust or soil. About 65 per cent of those who inhale these spores become immune without showing any signs of illness. The disease is not transmitted directly from man to man. Most victims recover and have a lasting immunity to the disease thereafter.

In the early stages of this disease the temperature may reach 104 and there is usually chest pain and generalized aching. The only effective treatment is the antibiotic, amphotericin B. The dose must be carefully regulated to prevent severe side effects. Some doctors advocate early treatment of this disease and others prefer to wait and see whether, with good nursing care, the disease will not subside.

Q—What is Metahydrin? Does it cause any bad side effects?

A—This drug is given to relieve edema or waterlogging of the tissues. It increases the amount of urine passed. It should be taken only under medical supervision and should not be taken by persons with gout, diabetes, cirrhosis of the liver or chronic diarrhea or by persons who are taking digitalis or drugs of the cortisone group. Side effects rarely occur but may include mild nausea, flushing and muscle cramps.

Q—I read recently that the Food and Drug Administration is clamping down on non-prescription iron preparations, including all vitamin pills that contain iron? What harmful effects could be caused by taking iron tablets daily?

A—Iron compounds should be given only for the treatment of anemias that are due to iron deficiency. They should be avoided by persons with hemolytic blood-destroying anemia, hemosiderosis (overloading of iron in the tissues) and hemochromatosis (bronze diabetes). Anything, no matter how vital, can be a poison if you get too much of it.

Q—Are there any harmful effects from taking the antihistamine, ChloroTrimeton, daily?

A—This drug is usually given for an allergy. All antihistamines are likely to cause drowsiness or dizziness if taken in too large a dose. There should rarely be any need for taking these drugs daily over a prolonged period.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Future Poses a Living Danger

TOLEDO, Ohio. (AP)—The future may see "more life on this planet than it can possibly sustain," says Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, undersecretary of the United Nations.

Dr. Bunche said "The population growth, and the 'gap between the haves and the have nots' among nations are the two most serious problems facing mankind."

He spoke as he received an honorary doctor of laws degree from the University of Toledo.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Iron Duke Loses Again

By JACOBY & SON
1965 Vanderbilt Cup Winners
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When some bridge players capture an adverse glow with the ace they feel a glow of pride and will comment on it. The two favorite remarks are "Aces were made to take kings" and "No better place for it."

We have no quarrel with either remark although they are both rather shopworn by now, but we have a substantial quarrel with a man who is so anxious to talk that he doesn't see the wisdom of saving his ace until it will really be worth-while for him to play it.

West opened the king of diamonds and the suit was continued until South ruffed the third lead. Then South played out his king of spades. West had learned a different remark to go with the play of the ace on the king and was so anxious to use it that he slapped on his ace with the comment, "Not through the Iron Duke!" The remark was new to West. It is not exactly new since it was used for the first time within a few days of the Battle of Waterloo.

West got off his remark and South got off the hook. Once West played that ace of spades South was able to take the rest of the tricks since he could ruff a fourth diamond lead in dummy.

If West had thought about the hand instead of airy persiflage he could and should have let the king of spades hold. South would continue with another spade and West should hold up a second time. At this point South would not be able to afford another trump play but would have to go after clubs and give West a chance to make his small trump. The combination of a 4-1 trump break and good defense would have been too much for poor South.

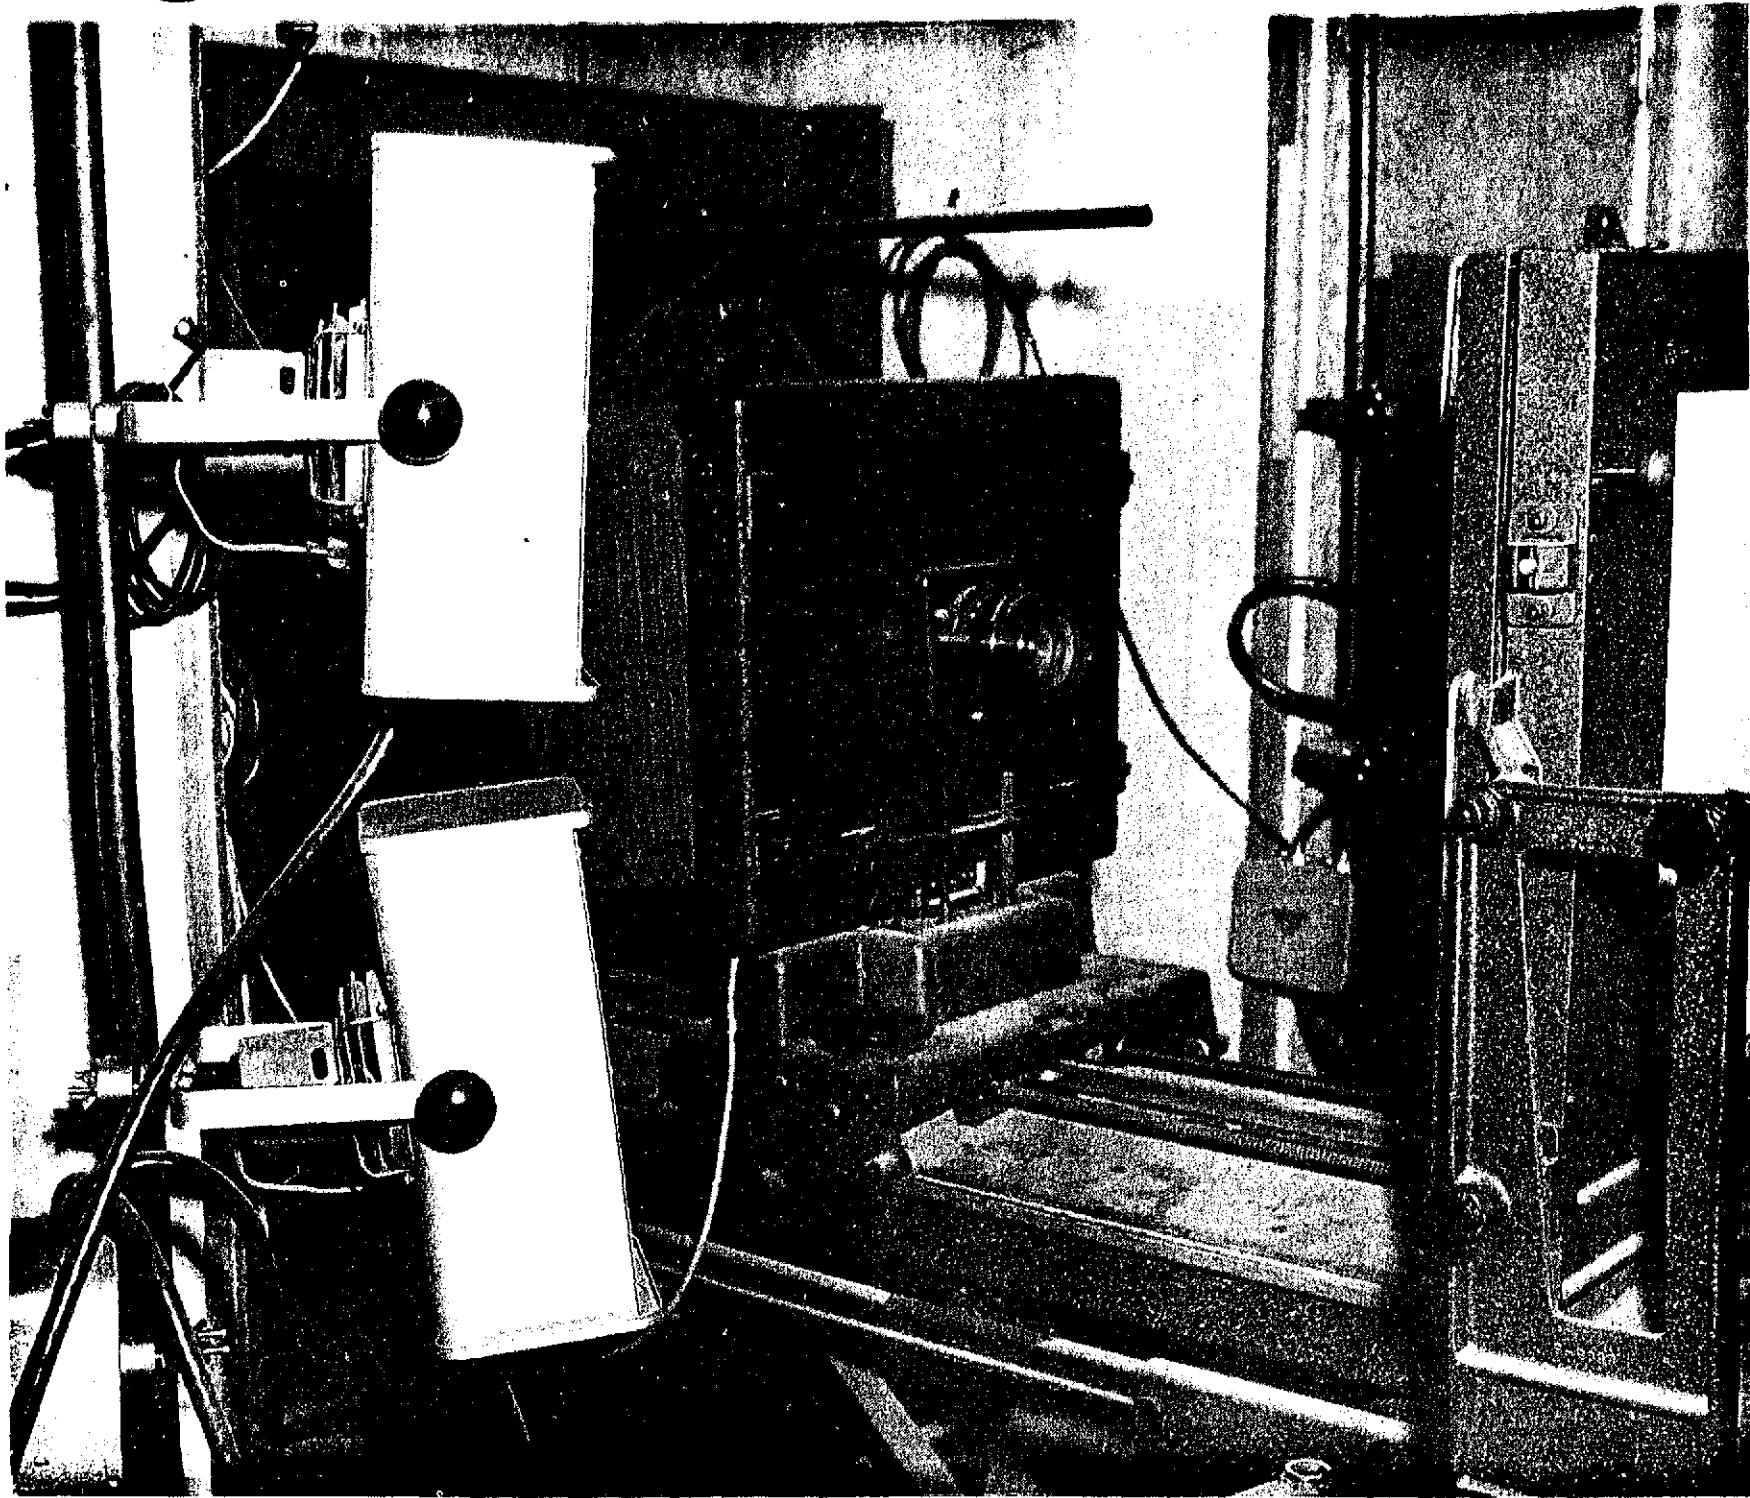

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner continues to four spades. What do you do now?

End of an Era: Engraving 'Out' as Offset Comes in

— Hope (Ark.) Star photos
THESE PHOTOGRAPHS MADE LAST WEEK in Hope Star's plant tell the end of an era in newspaper production. Printing from engravings and type is "out"; and the offset process, employing photography entirely, is "in."
THE PICTURE ABOVE MARKS A HISTORIC moment — the departure of the leased electronic engraving machine

AND HERE IS THE ENGRAVING MACHINE'S successor — the 19-by-23-inch Brown Caravelle process camera and battery of arc-lights, which copies entire newspaper pages into negatives, from which plates are made for the rotary offset press.

THIS IS THE FIRST STEP IN OFFSET — putting together the page-size pasteups of newspaper pages which the big camera will photograph. Fitting news and advertising into the pasteups on the fluorescent-lighted make-up bench are two new Star employees, Mrs. Emily Gunter, left, and Mrs. Jo Ann Arnett.

AND HERE IS THE END RESULT — A FULL-PAGE negative fresh from the camera, being checked by Mrs. Jo Ann Burke, advertising assistant. Two negatives at a time are printed on an aluminum plate which goes on the press.

Don't Budget at All, Just Manage Well

By GODFREY ANDERSON

LIMERICK, Ireland (AP) — I don't budget at all. I just manage. And things are not too bad at all.

Eileen O'Connell, 38, mother of Ireland's first surviving quads in living memory, was explaining how she kept a household of 13 on roughly 10 pounds ($28) a week.

Mrs. O'Connell lives with her husband James O'Connell, 40, a cooper, at Martian Terrace, Collasgreen, 16 miles outside Limerick.

As you enter the door of their single-story house you are confronted by a colored pastel picture of Jesus and the gold-lettered words "God Bless Our Home."

The O'Connells, a family of 11, including the quads, Elizabeth, 16, her mother run the home. Patrick and William, the twins, are 15. Then there are Matthew, 14, Thomas, 10, Pascal, 6, Bridget, 4, and the quads, two boys and two girls who celebrated their first birthday Jan. 25. They are Gerard, Michael, Paul, John, Catherine, May and Margaret, Ann.

Nobody took much notice of the quads when they were born prematurely in the regional maternity hospital at Limerick.

"Except for the fact that they were very good. They had a collection and raised about $420. We've put that aside for the children."

Mrs. O'Connell is helped by Elizabeth and by the district nurse, Anna Ryan, who drops in three times a day. But nurse Ryan stops her visits soon and then Mrs. O'Connell is on her own.

James O'Connell earns $24 a week when he's working. The twins—William works in the village garage and Patrick at the post office—give Mrs. O'Connell about $3 a week from their earnings. The other children still are at school.

Mrs. O'Connell says she gets $47.60 monthly in state and family allowances.

The County Council-owned house, for which rental is $5.60 a month, was enlarged at council expense to make a home for the quads. Two more rooms and a small second kitchen were added, providing five rooms for the family of 13. At the same time hot water was provided, a rare luxury in the west of Ireland.

Mrs. O'Connell says they can't afford to run.

A commercial firm keeps the quads supplied with baby food but Mrs. O'Connell considers the best present of all was the first she had—another firm's present of a washing machine.

The quads' mother starts her day about 6:30 a.m. First there are the babies. Matthew, Thomas and Pascal must be got off to school by 8:30. Then it's time to get the twins away to their jobs in the village. She's seldom through before 9 p.m.

Mrs. O'Connell doesn't complain and says she manages very well, but Alderman Steve Coughlan of Limerick is seeking special state aid in the Irish Daily for cases of multiple birth. The government promised to consider the matter. That was nearly a year ago. Nothing has since been heard.

Only, but in the worst of all, after touches hand is the great emperor penguin.

By JOSEPH E. MOHBAT

WASHINGTON (AP) — Today's high-powered society threatens to run away from the creaking machinery of the federal judicial system. It faces a "legal explosion."

In an attempt to meet the problem, Congress approved this week a bill to create 43 new federal judgeships in those states and appellate circuits where case backlogs have risen nearly out of sight.

The change, if approved as expected by President Johnson, will depart from tradition in at least one way by overstepping the unwritten nine-judge limit on Courts of Appeals. It will add four temporary seats to the South's 5th Circuit, where civil rights litigation has soared in recent years.

But in the eyes of some of the federal judiciary's keenest observers — including some of its judges — further departure and greater reform are urgently needed. The federal courts, in their view, must be made responsive to modern times if they are to cope with the mounting litigation to be expected in a nation whose population — now 194 million — has been projected to 437 million by the year 2010.

An increase in judges, alone, is widely regarded as a short-sighted approach to a broad problem. Little headway has been made against case backlogs since 73 new judgeships were created in 1961. Some of these judgeships have not been filled.

Less than a year ago, Chief Justice Earl Warren cautioned, "We cannot afford to go on pyramiding judgeships periodically without making our judicial system responsive to and part of the times in which we live."

The burden of the lower federal courts also has snowballed.

Whether manpower or faulty organization is at fault, the federal courts have been unable to keep up with the mounting volume of judicial business. And one frequent target for criticism has been the practice of elderly judges to remain on the job. For most of these, old age brings a necessary slowdown.

Federal judges, under the Constitution, serve during their good behavior — which usually means for life.

Since the vast majority of federal judgeships are the capstones to long and distinguished legal careers, few federal judges are young men.

The Justice Department urged Congress, in considering the increase in judgeships, to undertake simultaneous reforms to insure that vigorous, fully competent judges are handling the mounting court workload. It suggested that judges automatically become "senior judges" at 70, opening the way for appointment of younger men to the court, but allowing an older judge to continue to assist in its work.

Congress ignored the suggestion, although a Senate subcommittee is studying the problem of removing incompetent judges.

Proposals have been heard to revise judicial procedures to eliminate duplication and cut down the number of hours a judge must spend poring over details that someone lower down could process.

Non-Reds Approve U.S. Policy-Rusk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk says the great majority of non-Communist governments support the U.S. role in the Viet Nam war although some, for various reasons, have not expressed their support publicly.

He predicts more nations will offer help.

"No, the United States does not stand alone assisting the Republic of Viet Nam to repel an aggression," Rusk said Monday night at a Founders' Day banquet at the Boston University School of Public Communications.

"The facts about the cause and nature of the struggle there, and the vital stakes involved, are increasingly realized throughout the free world."

Rusk said that nearly all non-Communist governments and some Communist regimes understand that the United States "has made persistent and extraordinary efforts to obtain a peaceful settlement in Viet Nam — that it is Hanoi and Peking which have barred the road to peace."

The State Department head said he knew from his own contacts "that a great majority of non-Communist governments understand and support what we are doing, even though some, for various reasons, have not yet said so publicly." Rusk predicted that "You will see more and more governments of the free world offering increasing, tangible assistance to South Viet Nam."

During Rusk's talk, about 150 college-age pickets marched outside, carrying signs protesting U.S. policies in Viet Nam.

In Montreal, Deputy Undersecretary of State U. Alexis Johnson said he believes Americans do have the determination and perseverance to continue the Viet Nam struggle.

"When Hanoi and Peking are convinced that this is the case, a peaceful solution can be found," Johnson told the Canadian Club.

The official also said no one in the U.S. government believes victory in Viet Nam will be primarily a military victory. Any significant peace must permit necessary reforms in the political, social, religious and economic life of Viet Nam, even while military victories are taking place, he said.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., meanwhile, said in Atlanta, Ga., that if the Viet Nam struggle ever goes to the conference table, "the Viet Cong will have to be on it."

"All parties will have to be included if we are ever able to reach a solution," Ribicoff said. "I believe the President realizes this." He was in Atlanta for a speaking engagement.

College Receives $400,000 Grant

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — The University of Massachusetts has received a $400,000 scholarship fund, the largest single private gift in the state university's history.

The fund was bequeathed by the late George M. Coddington of Sarien, Conn., a 1909 graduate, and former executive vice president of Bartlett Tree Experts, Inc. He died in Darien Sept. 23, 1964.

Big Welfare Grant to County

WASHINGTON (AP) — The St. Francis County Public Welfare Department will receive a grant of $244,283 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said Monday. The funds were authorized under Title V of the federal Economic Opportunity Act for a work experience training program, McClellan said.

Trip to Mars or Venus in Year 2001

By FRANK CAREY

AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If

you're a middleweight and have a yen for a spaceship flight to Mars or Venus in 2001, your round-trip ticket may cost about $1,600. Fatties probably will pay more, skinnies less, a space scientist predicted today.

Tickets will be figured at about $10 per pound of bodyweight, Dr. Eugene B. Konecni indicated.

Konecni, of the National Aeronautics and Space Council, is chairman and keynote of a symposium opening today on "Space Age in the Fiscal Year 2001."

It is sponsored by the American Astronautical Society and honors the late Dr. Robert Hutchings Goddard, who launched the world's first liquid-fueled rocket 40 years ago Wednesday.

By the year 2001, Konecni said in his prepared address, "an economical manned transportation system to the near planets (Mars and Venus) is likely to be either in service or in active development."

Daniel J. Fink, deputy director of the Defense Department's Division of Defense Research and Engineering, also took a look at the future. He said many future developments are unpredictable now — but then ventured some predictions, including the development of:

— Mechanical robots activated by radio signals from earth to do construction work and other jobs several hundred miles in outer space

— Three-dimensional television

— Great systems of communications satellites — sporting 150-foot antennas constructed in space — capable of beaming messages to selected points on the earth so that "Rhode Island might be coupled by direct beam with Romania, and Vermont with Venice."

— A "standard second language" whereby all nations could communicate with one another via satellite. And, even before that, perfection of a system of automatic language translation, employing electronic computers.

— Magnolia Plant Resale Scheduled

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service has rescheduled sale of the Magnolia Steel Corp. here, seized for nonpayment of taxes, for March 31.

The sale of the firm at public auction was originally scheduled March 1, but postponed until March 11 "in the best interest of the government and taxpayers."

The IRS said it felt no one was prepared to bid on the property.

Millions in Jakarta Demonstrate

By JOHN CANTWELL

SINGAPORE (AP) — Jakarta

radio said today more than a million persons massed in the Indonesian capital in a demonstration of support for Lt. Gen. Suharto's anti-Communist campaign.

Speakers demanded that Suharto "cleanse the Cabinet" of Communist elements and put all Communists on trial.

The rally was organized by the political parties that make up the anti-Communist Pancasila Front.

The U.S. ambassador to Indonesia, Marshall Green, said in a telephone conversation with Tokyo the demonstration was one of the largest he had ever seen.

The Indonesian government radio said leaders of the rally pledged full support to Suharto and urged all at the demonstration to pray to God that his actions would benefit Indonesia.

Speakers called on the army chief to take immediate action to stabilize the country's economy and to reopen the University of Jakarta.

President Sukarno closed the university in a futile effort to end student demonstrations protesting his firing of the anti-Communist Defense Minister Gen. Abdul Haris Nasution, last month.

The demonstrations, which became increasingly violent, led Suharto to take control of the country from Sukarno, who remains as a figurehead president. One of Suharto's first official acts after the takeover on Saturday was to ban the Indonesian Communist party.

In an earlier broadcast, Radio Jakarta said Suharto was "indisposed" and did not attend a meeting of Sukarno; the new defense minister, Maj. Gen. Sarbini; and his deputy, Maj. Gen. Murshid, at Sukarno's palace at Bogor, 40 miles from Jakarta.

Informed sources in Singapore said they had learned that Suharto is suffering from a slight case of influenza and that it appeared he did not want to discuss with the president Suharto's reported intention to drop pro-Communist ministers from the Cabinet.

Those to be ousted reportedly include Sukarno's pro-Peking First Deputy Premier Subandrio and Third Deputy Premier Cherali Saleh. Subandrio, Saleh and 16 other ministers are under house arrest in Sukarno's palace in Jakarta, the sources said.

Approval of Tax Bill Expected by Nightfall

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Final congressional approval of a $6-billion tax package is expected by nightfall, in time to meet the deadline President Johnson proposed weeks ago.

Already passed by both chambers, the big bill to raise funds for Viet Nam fighting and drain off some inflationary pressure goes back to the House and Senate in compromise form.

With most Senate changes trimmed away, the measure is close to the original administration proposals designed to increase revenues for two years by speeding up some tax collections and temporarily reimposing higher excise taxes on automobiles and telephone service.

In addition to the purely revenue-raising measures, legislation includes a substantially revised system of withholding income tax from wage and salary earners and provides Social Security pensions for some 300,000 persons 72 or older who have not been covered.

The main revenue provisions are two-year boosts of the automobile excise tax by one percentage point and the telephone tax by seven and a speedup of corporate tax collections, without raising the rates.

The new withholding system for the first time takes into account the fact that higher incomes are taxed in higher brackets. Officials estimated that in general it would mean lower withholding for average families with earnings up to about $7,000, higher withholding for those receiving more. The object is to match more closely withholding with the actual tax owed.

The new Social Security pensions, $35 a month for a single person, $52.50 for a married couple, are available to persons 72 and older not now covered by Social Security, provided they are not receiving an equivalent pension from any other federal, state or local government source, the Railroad Retirement System or public welfare payments.

There are hundreds of Hempstead County residents age 65 and over who still have not enrolled for Medicare.

March 31, 1966 is the deadline for enrolling and those people who do not enroll by that date will not have another opportunity to do so until October, 1967, according to Otis Blackwood, District Manager, Social Security Administration. Those missing this deadline will also have to pay a higher premium when they enroll later on.

The Social Security Office, 121 College Drive in Texarkana will remain open to the public all day on Saturday, March 26. It will also be open until 9:00 p.m. on Tuesday, March 22 and on Thursday, March 24. In the following week the office will remain open each night beginning on Monday, March 28 through Thursday, March 31 — the deadline.

Office hours have been extended to assist those who cannot come in during the regular hours. Blackwood urges all who have not yet enrolled to do so immediately. As we move closer to the March 31 deadline, the crowd at the district office will increase and the waiting times will be longer.

Peace Force May Call It Quits

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The Organization of American States is reported considering disbanding its 8,000-man peace force because it has become a prime target in the Dominican election campaign.

Much of the criticism from political parties apparently is designed to win support of nationalist elements in the June 1 balloting. But OAS officials fear it may set off new extremist violence against the force, which includes 6,800 Americans.

Twenty-four members of the peace force have been killed and 174 wounded since it was assembled last May in the wake of the Dominican revolution.

Ground Fight Slows; Planes Hit Targets

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52s bombed a Viet Cong staging area within sight of the North Viet Nam border today, but on the ground the Allied offensive continued without any major clashes.

American jets attacked North Viet Nam Monday added army installations to the usual communications targets. Two U.S. planes were lost, including the first Navy Albatross amphibious rescue craft downed by North Vietnamese gunners.

On the political scene, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military government faced continuing unrest stemming from the ouster of Ky's potential rival, Gen. Nguyen Khanh Thi, from command of the army's 1st Corps. More than 3,000 persons demonstrated in Da Nang, the 1st Corps headquarters, calling for national elections to displace the junta, and a general strike paralyzed the city of 160,000.

The demonstrators, mostly Buddhists, demanded the dismissal of Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu, a Catholic lieutenant general, and the restoration of several generals who led the coup against the Catholic Diem regime three years ago.

The 90-minute demonstration in South Viet Nam's second-largest city was orderly. About 20 per cent of the participants were soldiers.

In the air war, one flight of Guam-based Stratofortresses unloaded their big bombs this morning 60 miles northeast of Hue, in a wooded assembly area for men and supplies from near North Viet Nam.

Another flight of B52s hit a suspected Communist troop concentration in Phu Yen Province, on the South China Sea 225 miles northeast of Saigon. The Viet Cong have so far eluded elements of the U.S. 101st Airborne and South Korean units seeking to route them from the ricefields around Tuy Hoa.

Junior Play Promises Many Laughs

The 1966 Hope High School Junior Play, entitled "Willie's Week-End," is just what a high school play should be... good entertainment. It is full of laughs, comical situations and action.

Mrs. Winkle, Cindy Reese, is the typical "son Coddler" who fears that her son might have a heart attack, in which case his large inheritance goes to a cat hospital. When Willie, Larry Don Wright, is left at Bide Awee Nursing Home while Mrs. Winkle has her home redecorated, his heart attack proves to be concerned with a pretty nurse named Eva Wood, Peggy Franks, instead of thrombosis.

The play involves a supposed kidnapping and burglary... topped off with a ransom note left by one of the patients who believes himself to be Captain Kidd played by Bill Eller, a sprained ankle, and elopement.

"Willie's Week-End" is lively, entertaining, and a must to see!!! Get your tickets now from any Junior or purchase them at the door this Friday night. The performance will begin at 8 p.m. in the Hope High School Auditorium.

LBJ Signs War Bill, Issues Plea to China

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson signed today a bill authorizing $4.8 billion more to support the war in Viet Nam and with this action sounded a new plea to Peking and Hanoi to "abandon their hopeless attempts at conquest."

Johnson interpreted the overwhelming margins by which Congress passed the measure as a new declaration that the American people "stand behind our fighting men in Viet Nam."

The signing ceremony and the presidential speech took place in the White House East Room before members of Congress, Cabinet and defense officials, the military high command and White House staff aides.

Speaking to those who asked what the struggle in Viet Nam really means, Johnson said he wanted to say again:

"Our purpose is to demonstrate to the remaining advocates of violence that there is more human profit to be had from peace than there is from war."

A few hours ahead of Johnson's statement, Secretary of State Dean Rusk said the great majority of non-Communist governments back the U.S. role in Viet Nam although some, for various reasons, have not expressed their support publicly.

And he predicted more nations will offer help.

Man Accused in Slaying — Shot at Trial

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP) — James Miller, 26, lay seriously wounded here today after being shot four times at his murder trial Monday, while authorities held the father of the girl he is accused of killing.

Prosecuting Attorney Joe Holmes said he would charge Chance Williams, 38, probably today, with assault with intent to kill. Both men are of Pine Bluff.

Pandemonium struck the Jefferson County courthouse here Monday when four bullets from a 22 caliber pistol were pumped into Miller as he stood outside the court room during a recess of the trial. About 20 persons were in the corridor where Miller was shot.

Miller was struck once in the left side of the head, twice in the back and once in the chest. Hospital spokesman said Monday night his condition was satisfactory.

Deputy Sheriff Pink Booher said he arrested Williams as he ran down the back stairs of the courthouse. He said Williams had a 22 caliber pistol in his hands.

Sheriff Harold Norton said he questioned Mrs. Williams after the shooting and when asked if her husband had shot Miller, she said, "Yes."

Miller was charged with second-degree murder in the Oct. 31, 1965 shooting of Williams' daughter, Dorothy, 19, in a cafe here.

Circuit Judge Henry W. Smith declared Monday's proceedings a mistrial.
